WEST LIBERTY, MORGAN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, AUGUST 3, 1933

WHOLE NUMBER 1192

MERCHANTS AND TEACHERS ENDORSE TURNER

West Liberty, Ky., July 31, 1933.
To the Voters of the 37th Judicial District:
We are now bringing this primary to a close and I feel very confident of victory, and I want to plead with my friends to keep on the alert and to work for victory as it depends on just how hard we work as to the size of my majority.
You know that I have left all other races alone and have fought my own race for the Democratic nomination for Circuit Judge and I feel that all other candidates have a good feeling for me and that they will thru county pride vote and work for my success where it does not affect them.
There are a few people that have seen fit to fight me in the primary, but I hope to have their loyal support after the primary and when I am nominated and elected your Circuit Judge, I will certainly repay you with honest and efficient service, as I have not obligated myself otherwise and I would not want to enter any office with obligations that would hinder me from serving the people well.
I will further say that I will not use the office to build a political machine for myself or anyone else, and that no candidate for office deserves the support of the voters except on the principles for which he stands and his fidelity to such principles; therefore, I earnestly solicit your vote and support in the Democratic primary August 5, 1933. I am,
Very truly yours,
LYNN B. WELLS

TAULBEE FOR JAILER
This issue of the Licking Valley Courier comes to you very near the close of the campaigns of the various office seekers. There are a number of voters in the county that it has not been my privilege to see and I am taking this opportunity to make my last appeal to them. No doubt a number of candidates for jailer have seen each voter and in some instances it is perhaps hard to make up your mind as to who is the better man for the office. If the qualifications of these men are not known to you, you owe it to yourself and to your county to make an investigation of their qualifications and of the things for which they stand. I welcome such an investigation. In a former issue of this paper I have told the people what I would do to improve conditions of the jail and county property if the people should choose me as their next jailer and I would be glad if each voter would familiarize himself with the proposition I have made in regard to these improvements.
I now wish to thank those who have so loyally supported me in this campaign and I further earnestly solicit the votes of those taxpayers in the county who are interested in better sanitary conditions for the jail and courthouse property at no additional cost to them.
Respectfully yours,
EDWARD TAULBEE

VOTE FOR W. S. MCKINNEY Taxpayers Friend
The end of the campaign for county officers for the next four years is in sight. The magistrate is one of the most important offices we will fill. Let us make no mistake. I entered this race to save the taxpayers some real money which is now being spent against their wishes. I was the first man in the race in my district and we must win this race. The good name of our county is at stake. Thank you all for your support. It will be repaid with faithful service.
W. S. MCKINNEY

Elect Home Men

The Courier does not take sides between local candidates in a primary election. The Courier is not a factional organ. We are content to treat all sides alike and let the voters decide between them.
But the Courier is, first of all, Morgan county's newspaper. Our interests are the interests of Morgan county, because what is good for the county as a whole is good for this newspaper, and anything that hurts the county hurts the county's newspaper.
It is for this reason that the Courier urges its readers to stand unanimously behind Morgan county's candidates for district offices: Walter H. Sebastian for state senator, Lynn B. Wells for circuit judge, and Henry C. Rose for commonwealth's attorney.
Each of these men is Morgan county's only candidate for the office he seeks, but each of them has opposition from outside the county, and we feel that Morgan county voters should rally to their support.
The Courier would not ask you to support these men against outsiders if we believed the outsiders were better qualified, any more than we would expect you to vote for an ornery cousin instead of a better qualified neighbor. But we are sure that Walter H. Sebastian, Lynn B. Wells and Henry C. Rose are deserving of your support not only because they are Morgan county's candidates, but also because they are at least as worthy, and perhaps more worthy, of the offices they seek, than any of their opponents.
Elect your home men.

KENTUCKY AND PROHIBITION

If it were possible for 36 states of the union to vote immediately in favor of repeal of the prohibition amendment and the constitutional change should become effective tomorrow it would still be unlawful to manufacture or sell intoxicating liquors in Kentucky. There are those who insist that Kentucky should hasten her vote on repeal so that the liquor industry that was formerly highly profitable, may be restored, providing labor and bringing increased revenue to the state.
But repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment will not permit Kentucky distilleries to resume operation. Not until the prohibition amendment in the Kentucky constitution is repealed will the manufacture and sale of liquor be legal in this state.
The earliest possible time at which the Kentucky constitution can be amended is two years hence. Procedure in changing the state constitution requires that the state legislature, in regular session, vote to submit the change in the constitution to a vote. The vote cannot be taken until that election two years afterwards when members of the general assembly are elected.
That which is frequently lost sight of is the fact that the voters of Kentucky voted to add to the state constitution an amendment which forbids the manufacture and sale of liquor. Section 226 A, of the state constitution specifies that after June 30, 1920, no liquor may be manufactured or sold in the state.
Not until that constitutional provision is eliminated by a vote of the citizenship will it be possible to make or sell liquor in the state, regardless of the fact that the federal constitutional prohibition may have been removed.
Regardless of whether the extra session that is to be called in August is requested by Governor Laffoon to submit to the people for a vote the question of repeal of the prohibition amendment in the federal constitution, such will not hasten the day when Kentucky distilleries may be operated. They cannot be opened until the state constitution is amended.

Candidate Withdraws

After further consideration and in view of the fact that I cannot make a full "cavass," I have decided to withdraw as a candidate for jailer. I thank my friends for their good will and support and will ever remember your kindness.

IN THE RACE TO STAY

To the voters of Morgan county:
It is very likely that those opposing me will circulate a false report on or near the day of the election for the purpose of injuring me.
I am coming to you in the last few hours of the campaign to assure you I am in this race to the end and hereby ask you to pay no attention to any report that you may hear, but fight stubbornly and bravely until it is finished and we are declared the winners.
My prospects look fine. I feel sure of victory for which I wish to thank my dear friends.
I here wish to state that if elected your jailer, I will move to the town of West Liberty, and will give my personal attention to the property which belongs to the people and will do my utmost to keep it in first class condition.
Mothers, I am the father of three sons and one daughter and know the feelings of a father and should your son or daughter be unfortunate and fall into my hands I will feed and care for them with the greatest of kindness.
To those who wish to vote for me, you look on the ballot under the place where the list of jailers appear and my name is second.
Thanking you for your support in this race,
I am yours,
G. W. BLANTON

NEWSPAPER A NECESSITY

The function of a newspaper in a town like Eskridge is to give an accurate word picture of the news events of the community each week and to present this news as attractively as possible. We believe this newspaper is a good deal of a public institution. It is "our" newspaper to everyone who lives in and near Eskridge.
If there were no newspapers here it wouldn't be 24 hours until somebody would be around with a subscription paper trying to get one started. No town the size of Eskridge would, or could be without a local newspaper. Aside from the needs of the community, the merchants need a newspaper and so does every community enterprise, commercial, social or philanthropic.
Without a newspaper Eskridge would be much worse off than it is, to say the least.—Frank Frost in the Eskridge (Kan.) Independent.

W. H. STACY

The contest for nominations in Morgan county are fast drawing to a close. Just a few more days and all will be over. I have every assurance that I will win the nomination for Sheriff. Before I entered this campaign I hardly realized the number of friends I have and the depth of their friendship to me. I have fought this out on a high plane. I have dealt honorably with my opponent and in all sincerity I can say that so far as I have information my opponent has conducted his fight in an honorable fashion. Both of us cannot win and the thing we have to regret in all these contests is that somebody must lose.
I am now 67 years of age. I have never before sought an election for county office. I have spent a good part of my life in minor positions and am sure that no one can say that I have failed to discharge my official duty.
I take this opportunity to thank my many friends for the deep interest they have taken in my welfare and to urge you in these last moments of the campaign to let no honorable thing go undone to make the majority a decisive one.
Sincerely yours,
W. H. STACY

Sunday School Celebrates

The Sunday school at Pine Grove had a red letter day on Sunday, July 30. A program of songs, plays, and literary exercises were rendered in a particularly effective manner. The morning exercises started with a fine and spirited address by Ellis Ward, and the forenoon exercises continued up to dinner time.
Dinner was spread in the fine grove and it was a real part of the day's program.
Rev. Harlen Murphy and wife and little grandson of West Liberty attended and a sermon by Rev. Murphy was a leading feature of the afternoon program. All in all it is a day while will long be remembered by the fine little band of young folks of this place.

About the Farm

In deciding whether to enter the sheep business, or to increase the size of his flock, a farmer should study his supply of feeds that otherwise are being used, his tobacco barns or other buildings that might be used to house the sheep, and whether he has the time to properly care for the sheep.

Pectin, acid and sugar in the right proportions are essential to make a good jelly. Under-ripe fruit contains more pectin than ripened fruit, but ripened fruit has the better flavor. It is a good plan to use from a fourth to a half under-ripe fruit to supply the pectin, and the rest well ripened fruit to give the natural flavor and color.

The addition of tankage helps to make a mineral mixture more appetizing to pigs. A recommended mineral mixture consists of 4 parts of ground limestone, 4 parts of bone meal, 2 parts of salt and 1 part of tankage. Many farmers keep this mixture before their pigs at all times.

The farm shop is one of the projects of Kentucky Utopia Clubs, which are organizations of older farm boys and girls. Such a shop can often be established in a building already on the and with tools already on hand. Such a shop can be made to save much in machinery repair bills and in the making of many pieces of small farm equipment.

Many farmers are convinced that the use of marl or limestone prevents yellowing in alfalfa. One central Kentucky farmer who has 75 acres of alfalfa on marled land reports that he has had no evidence of this disease. Other farmers report that they would not attempt alfalfa growing without applying limestone or marl.

Make Iodine Survey

A survey of the state, made by the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky, indicates that there may be a deficiency of iodine in the foods and waters of some parts of eastern Kentucky to an extent as to cause goiter.

The eastern coal field area was found to have less iodine than any other section. The most was found in the southwestern part of the state, with the central part next, and the Purchase third.

The research chemistry department of the Experiment Station made one of the most complete studies of the iodine content of the soil ever made, it is said. A total of 439 samples of soil from the six geological areas of Kentucky were analyzed.

The report, written by Dr. J. S. McHargue, head of research chemistry, and D. W. Young, an associate chemist, says:

"The largest quantities of iodine were found to be associated with soils derived from limestone strata. The smallest quantity of iodine occurred in the soils derived from sandstone strata, in the eastern coal field area.

It therefore appears that the foods and natural waters produced in some parts of the eastern coal field may be deficient in iodine to the extent that endemic goiter is more likely to be prevalent in this part of the state than in any other part. The soil of the western coalfield area contain nearly twice as much iodine as those of the eastern coal field. The iodine content of the Manry (phosphatic) and the Mercer (non-phosphatic) soil profiles in Fayette county show considerable variation at different depths. There was no correlation between the phosphorus and iodine content in the two profiles. Soils derived from limestone rocks contain considerably more iodine than do the unaltered rock."

Field Meeting

All farmers of Morgan county are invited to attend a field meeting which will be held at S. D. Cecil's farm on Caskey fork Monday August 7th at 2:00 p. m.

Mr. Cecil produced and sold $499.00 worth of Irish potatoes on less than 2 acres of land. He has about one eighth acre still in the ground which are being saved for this field meeting and for show purposes.

Two field agents from the Extension Division of the University of Kentucky will be present at the meeting and will discuss some of the demonstrations projects which Mr. Cecil is carrying on at his farm.

Mr. Cecil is a real dirt farmer and will tell those present just what advantages there are in using up-to-date methods. Mr. Cecil has grown potatoes ever since he has been farming, and for the past seven or eight years has used the best methods obtainable, but for 1933 he learned a better method and has grown the best crop of all. All farmers who had a potato failure this year should attend this meeting.

College to Handle Wheat Plan

Dean Thomas P. Cooper has announced that the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, has completed plans to handle the government's wheat reduction for Kentucky. The work will be done by the staffs of the extension division of the college and the Experiment Station, thru the assistance of county farm agents and local committees.

Farmers who sign agreements to reduce their wheat acreages for the next two years will receive benefit payments for a portion of this year's crop, already grown and in many instances sold, as well as for a part of the 1934 and 1935 crops. Present plans indicate that two thirds of the payments for this year's crop will be made this fall and the rest next spring.

As soon as acreage allotments for the various counties of the state are received, local committees will be named to cooperate with county agents in placing the provisions of the wheat control plan before farmers.

Before wheat sowing time, farmers will be given an opportunity to sign agreements with the government to reduce their acreage for the next two years. This reduction will not be more than 20 percent of the average acreage of wheat grown in the last three years. The plan amounts to crop insurance, in that benefit payments will be made even though the wheat crop is a failure. Also farmers are guaranteed a parity price for wheat for the next two years. Land taken from wheat production may be used for some other crop.

Farmers desiring to take advantage of the government's benefit payment plan must sign agreements this year.

Lived at Home

Records kept by Mrs. T. W. Henderson, of Christian county, show that only $24.78 was spent for food between June 1, 1932, and June 1, this year, while the family produced and consumed $516.74 worth of food on the farm.

Besides the products consumed and produced from cows, chickens, garden, orchard and field, a surplus of food products was sold for $62.31. Subtracting the $24.78 spent for food from the $62.31 received for food leaves a balance of $37.53, which means that the Henderson family "lived at home."

In explaining why the family did so well producing its food supply on the farm, Mrs. Henderson said to Mrs. Frances Wiese Fleming, Christian county home demonstration agent:

"We had a larger variety to eat the year round than we ever had before, because I canned the following kinds of products: string beans, lima beans, corn, soup mixtures, black-eyed peas, pimientos, tomatoes, carrots, kraut, beets, turnip greens, mustard, apples, berries, peaches, pears, cherries, peas, sweet potatoes, chicken, liver tenderloin and sausage. A total of 24 different things were canned, besides the food stored."

4-H Club Camp

Three club leaders and about 28 club members of Morgan county are attending the District 4-H Club Camp at Quicksand, Ky. They left for camp Monday morning and will return to their homes Friday evening.

Wheat Allotment in Morgan County

It has been reported that 7 growers who had a total of 67 acres producing 546 bushels of wheat, are eligible for participation in the government allotment plan. These figures apply to Morgan county.

Any farmer who grew wheat in 1930, 1931 and 1932 can sign an agreement to reduce his acreage 20 percent and will receive a payment on his 1933 crop and benefit payments on his 1934 and 1935 crops.

Any farmer of Morgan county who grew wheat in 1930, 1931 or 1932 and desires to benefit by this plan is requested to send a statement of acreage for the above mentioned years. Send statement to Chas. E. Gabbard, County Agent, West Liberty, Ky.

TAX-EXEMPT HOMES

Helena, Mont.—In the hope of making absolute security for the American home a part of the "new deal" of the present Administration, a plan is being prepared here looking toward freedom from taxation and immunity from all liens of all kinds for property used as a home.

This revolutionary scheme, developed on the ideal that a home once acquired should be permanently insured against loss, is being sponsored by Mr. I. M. Brandford, commissioner of state lands and investments for Montana, who has had a hand in several other important pieces of legislation. Mr. Brandford hopes to have his project introduced in the next session of Congress, believing it must be made a federal issue to accomplish its purpose.

The idea of exempting the home from taxation, which is one of the basic features of the plan, is not entirely new. Mr. Brandford declares, but other features, such as making it impossible to place a mortgage on a home once the home has been acquired in full ownership, he declares to be entirely new.

To accomplish absolute security for the home, Mr. Brandford urges, government "must extend well-planned aid toward actual, full, unencumbered home ownership; make the home exempt from taxes of all kinds; make it legally impossible to place a mortgage on it, or to hypothecate or pledge it in any manner whatsoever for the payment of debts; make it legally exempt from liens of all kinds, and from attachment, judgment and execution."

Such a plan, he admits, cannot be put into complete operation overnight, but may require 10 years of gradual development; however, the time to begin was never more propitious, he adds, considering the other things being attempted in the "new deal."

Mr. Brandford makes it plain, of course, that the provisions against mortgaging and otherwise encumbering the home would apply only after it had been fully acquired and that aid in acquiring homes, either from the Government or building and loan associations, still would be necessary.

"It would, however, be a crude blunder to calculate the value of home security in the terms of dollars alone," he points out. "The reaction on the life of each person of the family's protected would have more subtle values which cannot be calculated in cash. It would give to the old folks a sense of security in their declining years which they do not now enjoy. It would add to the freedom, the dignity and the richness of their lives. It would give them the opportunity and incentive to do useful productive work under conditions of the fullest freedom."

A MODERN FABLE

Some time ago, and it was not very long either, a certain man carried money in his two trousers pockets. In his right pocket he carried money for the necessities of life, such as food, clothing and shelter, and in his left pocket he carried money for luxuries. The money began to run low in his necessities pocket. It kept going out faster than it came in and finally it was entirely empty, while the other pocket was full. He found himself very much in distress over the situation and wandered around here and there, much as a crazy man. Finally, he was found lying prostrate on the pavement of the street. He was taken up and carried before a lot of wise men who called in several doctors to decide whether he was crazy. The doctors examined him closely and decided that there was nothing the matter with his mind but he was suffering from starvation; he had gone without food for so long that he could go no farther and hence fell upon the street. The wise men then questioned the man and he told them that he had no money in his necessities pocket to buy food and what he needed, but he had plenty of money in his luxuries pocket which he wouldn't use for necessities. With this explanation the wise men decided that he was not crazy but simply a fool, so they took some of the money out of his luxuries pocket and put it in his necessities pocket. The man went out and bought a good dinner, was entirely relieved of distress and felt all right again.

The application of this modern fable is this: The State Treasury of Kentucky is as empty as Mother Hubbard's cupboard. There is no money in it which will take care of the hundred thousand unemployed hungry people in the State. In the road fund, which is the luxury pocket, there is some $15,000,000. Now the question is will the State take $3,000,000 out of the luxury pocket and put it in the necessities pocket? If he will do this, Uncle Sam will put $9,000,000 more in the necessities pocket and he will also put $7,500,000 in the luxury pocket, upon certain conditions and regulations in regard to its expenditures.

What will Kentucky do?—Elizabeth town News.

BOB JONES COMMENTS

What this country needs is a revival of the old time religion.

When family altars are down, when prayer meetings are deserted, when churches are filled with empty pews on Sunday, when there is no line of demarcation between the church and the world, there is nothing that will save us but a revival of the old time religion.

Years ago I was conducting an evangelistic campaign in El Paso, Texas. A minister friend of mine met a Jewish merchant on the train. The merchant said to the minister, "Why the revival? Why Bob Jones? Why the big tabernacle? We have our own preachers." The minister replied, "You are a merchant. Do you ever put on a sale?" The merchant smiled, "I see," said he, "Stimulate business, stimulate business."

It is necessary to stimulate all business. Everybody in this country believes in a business revival. There are signs of such a revival now and nobody seems to oppose it. It is a strange thing that the intelligent men who claim to believe in God and the Bible sometimes oppose a revival of real religion.

A few years ago it looked like the Democratic party was dead. But the Democratic party put on a revival. The Republican party is trying to start a revival now. They know they need it. They realize their condition. You can't find a real Republican in America who is opposed to a revival in the Republican party, but you can find stewards and deacons and elders who look at empty pews every Sunday who know their churches are at a low ebb spiritually and yet when you talk to them about a revival, they say, "We don't believe in a revival."

"Too much excitement in religion." Have you ever heard that expression? I have held meetings in all parts of the United States and I have dealt with the people a great many years and I have decided that a man is entitled to about all the religious excitement he can stir up in this country. When a merchant's store is empty and nobody is coming to patronize him, he usually gets excited. When nobody enters a lawyers office and he hasn't any practice, the lawyer usually gets nervous. But we can have a large church roll and a magnificent house of worship and not have ten percent of our membership at church on Sunday morning and no strangers there either, and we can have the house practically empty on Sunday night and then say gest that we need a revival and people say, "Oh I don't believe in excitement."

The hour has struck what we need some real spiritual concern. We need to get excited. According to the Bible, the only thing between a sinner and hell is a heartbeat. That is a mighty little thing to be between a man and hell. What we need between us and hell is a cross and on that cross a bleeding lamb.

The Cinderella Metal

To a people which has always regarded "money" as being synonymous with "gold," it may come as something of a surprise to know that silver comes closer to being an international medium of exchange than does the rarer metal.

All the oriental nations are silver-standard nations—and they represent half the world's population. So are a number of South American and European countries. France alone, of the great powers, holds to the gold standard at the moment.

That is why world economists, public and private, are talking so much about silver. And that is why a mounting number of authorities believe its stabilization to be an essential of recovery.

NEW LAND POLICY

Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, recently directed that thousands of acres of the public domain in Arizona and New Mexico be thrown open to public grazing. Many miles of fencing have been illegally maintained by large cattle interests since the passage of the Act of February 25, 1885 which made the maintenance of enclosures a criminal offense, it was stated.

Such fencing in those two states was allowed in 1917 as an essential war measure based on the shortage of men to herd cattle. Actions against violators of the law were suspended by former Secretary Work on June 3, 1925. On November 21, 1927, he issued a further order directing that unlawful fencing erected subsequent to June 3, 1925, be removed, but that no action be taken against those who had fenced enclosures prior to that date.

Former Secretary Wilbur affirmed the two orders of Mr. Work and no instructions to the contrary were issued until those of Secretary Ickes on July 18, 1933. The orders issued by Secretaries Work and Wilbur permitted violations of the law to go unpunished for years and gave executive use of thousands of acres of the public land to the big cattle interests.

Joan Likes to Cook

By Mabel Love

DURING her off hours, blond Joan Blondell, favorite of countless thousands of movie fans, thoroughly enjoys going into the kitchen and demonstrating her skill in the culinary field. "I like to cook," Joan says, "but only the good things my husband and I enjoy."

There's a particular kind of cookie which they both like, made with bran, and which, Joan insists, is one of the secrets of her success. Beauty, personality and pep, she says, are all based on good health, and her bran "health" cookies provide bran for bulk, calories for energy, and other things everyone needs to keep well.

Try this recipe for health cookies. You will enjoy them just as much as Joan does when she prepares in her own kitchen.

Bran Health Cookies
¼ cup shortening 1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup honey 1 teaspoon baking powder
1 egg (well beaten) 1 cup bran
1 cup flour ¼ teaspoon soda
½ cup raisins 1 cup chopped raisins
Cream shortening and honey. Add egg, bran, sifted dry ingredients and raisins. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased baking sheet, keeping them 2½ inches apart. Bake in a moderate oven (400° F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 2 dozen cookies 3 inches in diameter.

Salads for Summer Meals

SALADS are wholesome, attractive and delicious at any season of the year but they perhaps have greater appeal to summertime appetites than any other class of foods. Next recipes for combinations of food that are unusual and tempting in salads always are welcome. Some of these salads are substantial enough to be the main dish of luncheon or supper; some are attractive party salads; and others may be used as in regular dinner menus.

Devilled Egg and Cabbage Salad—Mash yolks of 6 hard-cooked eggs very finely; add 1 teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons Prepared Mustard, 1 tablespoon Pure Vinegar, 2 tablespoons Mayonnaise Salad Dressing, and blend. Mix thoroughly with chopped egg whites, 2 cups shredded cabbage and 4 tablespoons chopped Preserved Sweet Gherkins. Chill and serve on crisp lettuce. Garnish with paprika.

Asparagus Salad, New Orleans—Soak 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin in 2 tablespoons cold water and dissolve in 1 cup boiling water. When slightly cooled, beat in 1 cup Mayonnaise Salad Dressing with Dover egg beater. Add ¼ cup Sweet Pickles, finely chopped, and pour into small individual molds. Chill until firm. When ready to serve, unmold on lettuce and top each mold with a thin ring of green pepper. Surround mold with 4 asparagus tips to form a square. Serves 6.

Cooked Vegetable Salad—Scrape, dice and cook 1 cup carrots in boiling salted water. When they are partially tender, add 1 cup cooked diced potatoes and cook until both are tender. Drain off excess water and cool. Add 1 cup canned peas and pour liquid left from a small bottle of Olives over them and chill for an hour. Drain liquid off and add 3 tablespoons India Relish, ¼ cup chopped Stuffed Manzanilla Olives may be added if desired. Serve large mounds in cups of crisp lettuce and top with a heaping teaspoon of Mayonnaise Salad Dressing.

Pineapple, Celery and Nut Salad—Combine 1½ cups canned pineapple, cut in cubes, 1½ cups celery, cut in small pieces and 1 cup nutmeats, pecan or walnut. Moisten with a fruit salad dressing made by combining 1 cup Mayonnaise Salad Dressing with ½ cup sweetened whipped cream. Serve very cold in deep cups of crisp lettuce and garnish with additional nutmeats.

Banana and Celery Salad—Peel 6 bananas and cut in halves lengthwise. Spread six of the halves with Peanut Butter, and top with remaining halves. Press firmly together. Slice crosswise, into ½ inch slices,

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON
Director, Heinz Food Institute

letting slices fall on crisp beds of lettuce. Sprinkle 1 cup finely diced celery with salt, combine with enough Mayonnaise Salad Dressing to hold together, and place a mound of it in center of each salad. Garnish with paprika.

Fruit Cup Salad With Banana Dressing—Arrange 3 small cup-like leaves of lettuce on a salad plate. In one cup, place sections of peeled orange or grapefruit, in another, diced pineapple or peach, and in the third, white cherries from which the stones have been cut. Sprinkle with chopped pecans or English walnut meats. Of course, other fruits may be used. Grapes in season, or berries or fresh peaches or strawberries—any of these could be used. Then for the dressing, which is simple, but different and extremely good—mash ½ banana and add to it ½ teaspoon Vinegar and 2 tablespoons confectioner's sugar. Fold the banana mixture into ½ cup Mayonnaise Salad Dressing and serve. A few tablespoons whipped cream or a beaten egg white may be added also to this dressing to make it fluffy. Place the dressing in a Mayonnaise bowl and pass it after the salads are served. Crisp cookies are an excellent accompaniment for such a salad.

Vigilance

THE twenty-sixth annual convention of the National Canners Association at Chicago this year demonstrated that although there was a diminution in the amount of food canned in 1932 and a diminution in both the wholesale and retail prices of canned foods, there has been no diminution in the vigilance and scientific care with which seeds are selected, crops planted and harvested, and every step of the process of preserving the foods watched.

Scientists Speak

This is proved by the fact that more than one-third of the addresses at the Convention were delivered by scientists or representatives of United States Government agencies which cooperate in the ceaseless work of not only keeping canned foods as good as they were, but making them better year after year.

Among the scientists who addressed the convention were W. H. Harrison, director of the Research Department of the Commercial Canning Company, W. D. Bigelow and E. J. Cameron of the Research Laboratories of the National Canners Association, E. H. Wiesand of the Oregon State Agricultural College, J. C. Walker of the University of Wisconsin, D. Radebaugh and D. F. Sampson of the Research Division of the American Canning Company and M. E. Kalsen, Chief Dietitian of the Cook County School of Nursing in Chicago.

The Government's representatives included Charles E. Campbell of the Department of Agricultural Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and P. H. Dunn of the United States Department of Commerce.

Estelle Suggests a Pudding

Old-Fashioned Dessert With Modern Touch is Favorite of Screen Star

By Mabel Love

FOR a wholesome, appetizing dessert that will be enjoyed by the whole family there is nothing that can beat a good pudding. In the opinion of Estelle Taylor, famous screen star, Miss Taylor claims that she is an expert on puddings, and has at her command special recipes for a half-dozen different kinds that are particularly tasty and easy to make.

A crisp, ready-to-eat cereal like corn flakes, she says, makes an excellent base for an old-fashioned pudding with a modern touch. Here is one of Miss Taylor's favorites:

Estelle's Special

1 quart milk
1 quart corn flakes
Nutmeg
2 eggs
¼ cups sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
Beat the eggs, add the sugar, salt and milk. Put corn flakes into a baking pan and pour egg mixture over them. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Set pan in hot water and bake in a moderate oven (375° F.), until custard is set. Whites of eggs may be beaten stiff and used for a meringue. Provides 8 servings.

We heartily coincide with Mr. Adams views in regard to voting. Men and women should vote their sentiments but they should first weigh their sentiments and see if they are not "found wanting." They should see if his special aspirant for office is honest and upright and qualified and ready to serve his constituents with a broad smile on his face, instead of a scowl. Be sure you investigate the long list of names before using the stencil. COW BOY

THE PRICE OF BUSINESS SPEED

Banking Institute Speaker Says That Bank Failures Followed Business Failures

CHICAGO, Ill.—Many appear to think that failures occur only to banks, but the complete story of business shows that failures of American banks have followed the failure of business enterprises, and have not been a cause of those failures, Dr. Harold Stonier, National Educational Director of the American Bankers Association, declared in a recent address here before the American Institute of Banking.

"It is true that we have had more failures in our banks than in the banks of a number of other countries," he said. "It is also true that we have had more failures in drug stores, grocery stores, railroads, and in every other type of business enterprise. At the same time, it must be said that we still have left after all our failures, more drug stores, more grocery stores, more railroads, and more banks than any other country."

People do not realize, he said, that we have in excess of 108 banks which have been in existence over a century and we have more than 2,000 banks which have been in existence over 50 years.

"In other words, we have more banks over 100 years of age than any other country—we have more banks over 50 years of age than any country in the world," he declared. "The American banking system has not fallen down—it is not in danger of decay. Such failures as it has experienced are due to the price we pay for too rapid development of business enterprises, but that is the American spirit."

U. S. GOVERNMENT GREATEST BANKER

Runs Fifty-two Financing Institutions With Investment of Two Billion Dollars—Thirty-nine Agricultural

AMERICA'S biggest banker today is the Federal Government, which is now operating fifty-two financing institutions, says Professor John Hanna of Columbia University in the American Bankers Association Journal.

"Forty of these are owned entirely by the Government," he says. "In twelve more the Government has already a two-thirds interest. Thirty-seven are intended to be permanent. Twenty-five of the permanent ones and fourteen of the temporary ones are agricultural."

"The capital stock held by the United States in these banks has a par value of $1,380,000,000. The Government's total investment is nearly $2,000,000,000. Resources of these institutions exceed $3,000,000,000. In addition the Government has detailed supervision over fifty-one mortgage banks, operating under Federal charter."

"The Government also supervises 4,600 local agricultural loan associations with Federal charters. All this takes no account of the relations of the Government to the twelve Federal Reserve banks, nor of the authority recently given to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to buy preferred stock in national and state commercial banks."

The President has ordered the consolidation of the agricultural credit agencies into the new Farm Credit Administration, says Professor Hanna. He expresses the opinion that before the consolidation of the agricultural financing agencies too much machinery had been created to administer the financing institutions which the Government either owns or supervises.

"Existing institutions represent a considerable differentiation of function and any consolidations should be preceded by a careful survey of the actual activities of the various institutions," he continues. "The only consolidation the Administration has announced is that of the agricultural credit agencies in the Farm Credit Administration. As a permanent solution this arrangement is too closely bound up with politics."

"A better scheme would be to create a finance corporation under Federal charter to take over either the agricultural finance activities of the Government or all its lending agencies."

"The Government's financing and banking activities should be kept severely apart from subsidy and other schemes for raising the prices of farm products. One is business, the other is major political policy. The advantages of the corporation over bureau control for the business functions are real and significant."

Railroad Legislation

RECENT state legislative bill provided that a track man carrying a bell by day and a lantern by night should lead all railroad trains across grade crossings; that conductors must smile when answering questions; that it would be a misdemeanor to serve eggs more than one day old on pullman cars; that trains be required to stop at any time when flagged by hitch-hikers, and that trains crossing rivers wider than twenty-five feet be equipped with lifeboats and life preservers. This one did not pass.
